All political authority in Canada is divided between the federal & provincial governments according to the provisions of the Constitution Act, 1867. Local municipalities are a concern of the provinces, & derive their authority from Acts of provincial legislation. The Parliament of Canada consists of the Queen (represented in Canada by the Governor General), an Upper House called the Senate, & an elected House of Commons.

 The PFRA's mandate is to develop a viable agricultural & sustainable rural economy in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta & the Peace River Region of British Columbia. In partnership with other levels of government, farm groups, producers & industry, PFRA protects Prairie soils, develops & conserves the area's water resources, & encourages diversification into new crops, value-added processing, & other wealth-creating opportunities. In addition to financial assistance, PFRA also offers technical assistance in a wide range of areas including: land & water conservation planning; soil & water engineering; water supply development & wastewater treatment; agrology; shelterbelt planning; environmental analysis; economic analysis; rangelands management; irrigation development & planning; project management; GIS analysis; surveying & drafting. Programs include: Community Pasture Program (objectives include conservation of resource & utilization for grazing); Shelterbelt Program (works to enhance environmental sustainability & biodiversity through the use of shelterbelts & contributes to economic development by encouraging diversification in areas such as agroforestry); Shelterbelt Enhancement Program (program is designed to reduce greenhouse gases through increased shelterbelt plantings on agricultural lands across the Prairies). National programs delivered by PFRA are Greencover Canada Program (five-year, $110 million Government of Canada initiative, it is expected to improve grassland management practices, protect water quality, reduce greenhouse gas emissions, & enhance biodiversity & wildlife habitat) & the National Water Supply Expansion Program (a four-year, $60-million initiative under the Agricultural Policy Framework that supports the development, enhancement & protection of vital water resources to help address water constraints in agricultural areas of Canada). Other programs include the National Environmental Farm Planning Initiative that helps agricultural producers develop & implement environmental farm plans, & the National Farm Stewardship Program that provides technical & financial assistance to support the adoption of beneficial management practices

Operations include the development of nuclear power, scientific research, nuclear energy, related research fields, & the marketing of nuclear reactors. Maintains several research & development laboratories & provides various programs in support of the CANDU reactor & reactor technology. Provides environmental research & development on the storage & disposal of radioactive wastes in stable rock formations in the Canadian Shield. Activities cover a wide spectrum of waste management, particularly characterization, packaging, transport, processing, storage & final disposal. AECL operates an Underground Research Laboratory (URL) to develop & demonstrate efficient fuel waste disposal. AECL has developed the MACSTOR dry used fuel storage system, which can accommodate all used fuel generated in a reactor's operating life. The Liquid Waste Transfer & Storage Project involves the design, construction & commissioning of infrastructure & systems required to transfer, condition & store radioactive liquids, originating from research, operations & medical isotope production over the past 50 years.

Programs cover a wide range of topics associated with atomic power. Supports all aspects of nuclear technology & serves as a national laboratory in nuclear sciences. Developmental work is performed to demonstrate that low & intermediate level radioactive wastes arising from reactor operation can be immobilized in a stable form before disposal in a repository. The Fuel Packaging & Storage Project is underway to replace aging waste fuel storage containers, with 2010 as a completion date for the project.

Established the position of Commissioner of the Environment & Sustainable Development, reporting to the Auditor General, to act as an authority in making the government more environmentally responsible. The Commissioner monitors the departmental strategies & action plans, & the status of responses to public peditions. A number of federal departments & agencies are required to prepare sustainable development strategies & update them every three years. The Commissioner monitors the extent to which departments have implemented the action plans & met the objectives outlined in their strategies. The Commissioner conducts audits & special studies on the federal government's performance in areas such as climate change, ozone depletion, management of toxic substances & greening government operations. The 1995 amendments to the Auditor General Act created an environmental petitions process. Under this process, residents of Canada can forward a written petition to the Auditor General. Petitions must relate to environmental matters that are the responsibility of specific federal departments & agencies. The Commissioner monitors the status of these petitions & the government's response to them. On a yearly basis, the Commissioner reports on environmental & sustainable development matters that she believes should be brought to the attention of the House of Commons. The report can include chapters on audits & studies, sustainable development strategies, & environmental petitions Canada Business provides a wide range of information on government services, programs & regulations to Canadian business people. The base framework is an organized network of centres across Canada, one in each province & territory. The network of Canada Business is expanding to include regional access partners in many other communities across Canada. The centres offer various products and services aimed at helping clients obtain quick, accurate & comprehensive business information. Each centre exists as a result of cooperative arrangements between federal & provincial governments, & the private sector in some cases. Administration & management of the CBSC varies depending on location between the following federal agencies: Western Economic Diversification (WD), Industry Canada, the Canada Economic Development for Quebec Regions (CEDQR) & the Atlantic Canada Opportunities Agency (ACOA). The Federal Business Information System (BIS) is a collection of information on business-related programs, services & selected regulations which are accessible through the CBSC & on the CBSC web site (www.cbcs.org). The Federal BIS acts as a single window for individuals or businesses to access relevant information from all federal departments

Defines federal objectives relating to development opportunities & delivers business assistance programs for small- & medium-sized businesses in Québec for innovation, entrepreneurial & market development purposes. Supports a series of programs for appropriate environmental initiatives in various regions of Québec. The agency fosters alliances among the various environmental industry stakeholders including small- & medium-sized enterprises & industrial associations. Goals include a strengthening of existing & new partnerships, & an improvement of access to government programs. The agency also provides a significant amount of support for research & development in areas of environmental technology, demonstration, marketing & transfer projects. Supports initiatives that contribute to making Montréal an industrial centre of excellence in the environment. Aids small- & medium-sized firms in gaining access to federal procurement process, & encourages training & education focusing on business management. Helps business develop export markets through cooperative efforts with Industry Canada & Foreign Affairs & International Trade Canada
